

Overview

CMT's Web Individualized Education Program (IEP) Writer software is designed to assist schools with maintaining and tracking students' IEP online. Current information from CIMS® is accessed while allowing the IEP Team to update current evaluations. This software is accessible via a web-browser and is designed to run totally on your current iSeries/AS400. This solution will provide real-time access and update of information. Advantages of CMT's Web IEP Writer include, but are not limited to:

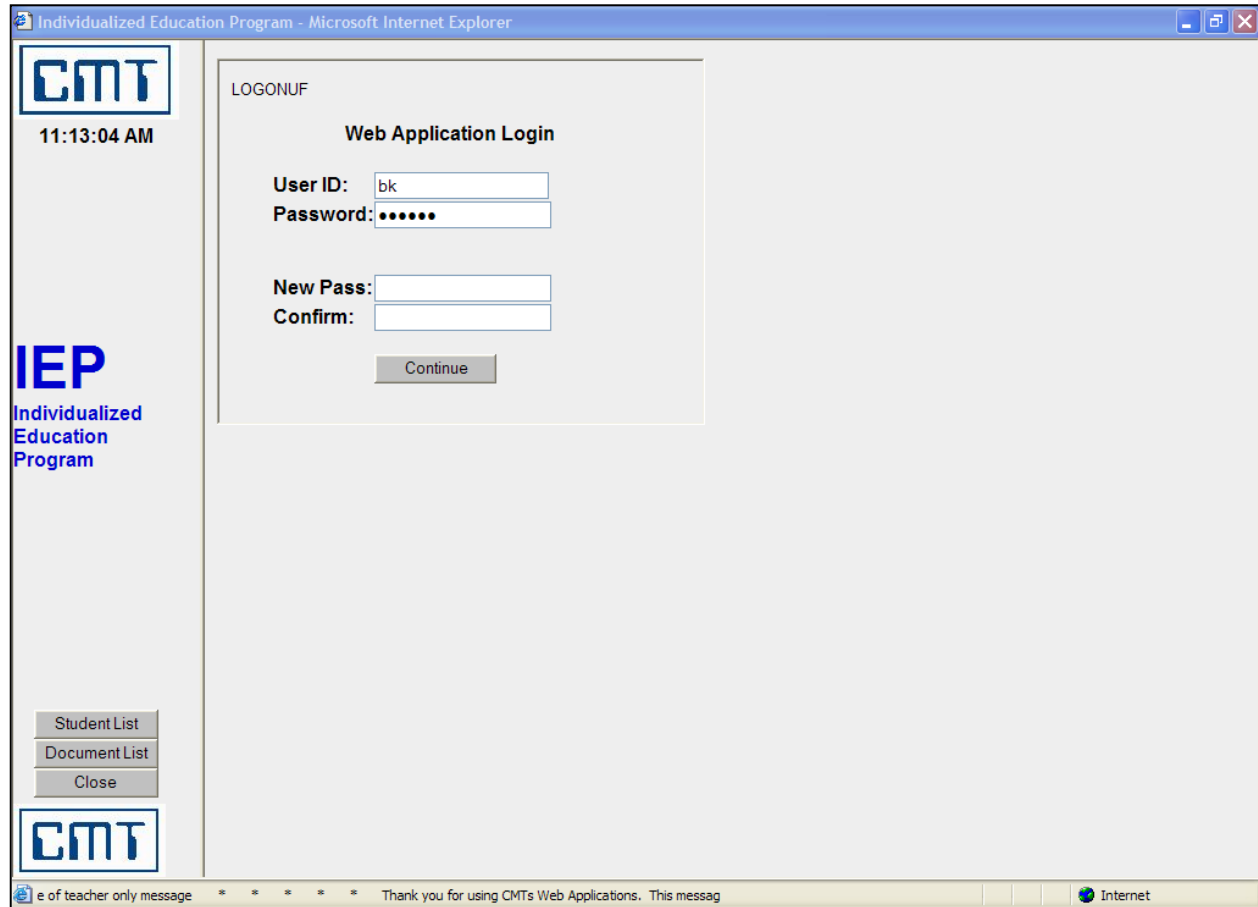

- Creating an IEP from any computer with a web connection and a browser.
- Allowing multiple teachers to work on a student's IEP independently of each other. This eliminates the passing around of paper or computer files.
- The retrieval of student information from the online student information system.
- Centralized information.
- A unique user ID and password which is required for users to access information. The Security Administrator has to grant access to each user.
- Data fields which can be set up to carry information from document to document and/or from page to page.
- Each school district can be in control of creating and designing their own unique IEP form.

The Basics

Users will access an address through their browser that will display a page similar to the one below. The applications displayed will depend on those that your district has implemented. To access the Web IEP Writer software, click on the Individualized Education Program.
